

VINYAN STUDIO • MIND & CALM SERIES

ANXIETY RELIEF Bonus Pack

Affirmations · 30-Day Planner · Sleep Guide · Relapse Toolkit · Cheat Sheets

Bonus 1: Affirmation & Mindset Cards

Cut or reference these individually — each is designed to fit as a single card. Read one aloud, or silently, whenever you need a quick reset.

This feeling is temporary. It will move through me.	I have gotten through every anxious moment so far.
I don't have to believe every thought I have.	I can feel anxious and still take the next small step.
My worth isn't measured by how calm I feel today.	I am allowed to slow down.
This is a wave. Waves pass.	I trust myself to handle what comes next.
I can ask for help without it meaning I've failed.	One breath at a time is enough.
I am safe in this moment, right now.	My body is trying to protect me, not hurt me.
I release what I cannot control.	Progress, not perfection.
I am learning, and that is enough.	I choose calm over chaos, one decision at a time.

I don't have to have it all figured out right now.	My anxious brain is not always an accurate narrator.
I've survived every anxious day so far — this one included.	I can be gentle with myself and still keep moving forward.
Uncertainty is uncomfortable, not dangerous.	I get to decide what deserves my worry today.
Rest is productive too.	I am allowed to take up space, even while unsure.
This wave will crest and fall, like every one before it.	I trust the small steps I'm taking.
Calm is a skill I am building, not a personality trait I lack.	I can hold both fear and courage at the same time.

Bonus 2: 30-Day Anxiety Relief Challenge Planner

Each day pairs one small action with space to note how it went. Missing a day is fine — pick back up wherever you are.

Day	Action	How it went
1	Practice box breathing for 2 minutes
2	Write down 3 things you're grateful for
3	Take a 15-minute walk outside
4	Try the 5-4-3-2-1 grounding method once today
5	Go to bed 20 minutes earlier
6	Limit caffeine to before noon
7	Do one thought-challenge worksheet
8	Reach out to one supportive person
9	Practice progressive muscle relaxation before bed
10	Write your worries down instead of holding them
11	Take 10 slow breaths before checking your phone
12	Do something creative for 15 minutes
13	Say one affirmation card aloud
14	Take a screen-free hour this evening
15	Notice one physical sensation of calm today
16	Plan tomorrow the night before
17	Practice the worry window technique
18	Move your body for at least 20 minutes
19	Write one thing you handled well this week
20	Do a 4-7-8 breathing set before a stressful task
21	Spend time in daylight for 10+ minutes
22	Reflect on one trigger and one response to it
23	Practice saying no to one non-essential thing

24	Do a full body scan relaxation
25	Write a compassionate note to yourself
26	Reduce one small source of clutter or overwhelm
27	Revisit your values worksheet from the workbook
28	Celebrate one piece of progress, however small
29	Plan one restorative activity for next week
30	Reflect: what's different after 30 days?

Bonus 3: Sleep & Nighttime Anxiety Guide

Nighttime is when anxious thoughts often get loudest, because the distractions of the day are gone. This short guide focuses on the highest-leverage changes for calmer nights.

Build a Wind-Down Routine

Start the same 30–45 minute sequence every night: dim the lights, put screens away, and do something low-stimulation — reading, stretching, or a warm shower. Repetition signals to your brain that sleep is coming.

If Racing Thoughts Show Up

- Keep a notepad by the bed — write the thought down and tell yourself you'll deal with it tomorrow.
- Try 4-7-8 breathing lying down; the extended exhale is especially effective before sleep.
- If you can't sleep after ~20 minutes, get up and do something calm in dim light, then try again.

Daytime Habits That Affect Nighttime Anxiety

- Keep a consistent wake time, even on weekends — this matters more than bedtime.
- Get natural light exposure earlier in the day.
- Avoid caffeine after early afternoon.
- Reserve your bed for sleep, so your brain associates it with rest rather than wakeful worry.

Printable Nightly Wind-Down Checklist

Lights dimmed 45 minutes before bed	■
Phone/screens away or on do-not-disturb	■
Notepad by the bed for any racing thoughts	■
One calming activity done (reading, stretching, shower)	■
Room temperature comfortable and cool	■
One round of 4-7-8 breathing completed	■
Tomorrow's top priority written down, so it doesn't have to be held in mind	■

Bonus 4: Relapse Prevention Toolkit

Setbacks are a normal part of managing anxiety, not a sign that your progress wasn't real. This toolkit helps you catch a harder patch early and respond with a plan instead of panic.

My Early Warning Signs

List the specific signs that tend to show up before things get harder for you (e.g., skipping meals, avoiding messages, sleeping poorly, increased irritability).

My Action Plan When I Notice Them

- Return to one technique from Chapter 4 of the Guide, even briefly.
- Reach out to one person on my support list below.
- Revisit my Values & Goals worksheet as a reminder of what matters.
- Consider whether it's time to check in with a professional.

My Support List

If you ever feel unable to keep yourself safe, contact a crisis line in your country, a trusted person, or emergency services immediately. In the U.S., you can call or text 988.

Bonus: Emergency Calm-Down Card

A single-glance card for the moments when anxiety spikes fast. Keep a photo of this page on your phone's lock screen or in your wallet.

1. Feet flat on the floor. Notice the contact.
2. Breathe in for 4, out for 6-8. Repeat five times.
3. Name 5 things you can see right now.
4. Say: "This is anxiety. It is uncomfortable, not dangerous. It will pass."
5. Choose one small next action — just one.

Bonus: Quick Scripts for Hard Moments

Simple, ready-to-use phrases for situations that often feel harder when anxious.

Needing a moment before responding

"Let me think about that for a moment and get back to you."

Declining something without over-explaining

"I can't make that work this time, but thank you for thinking of me."

Asking for reassurance more constructively

"I'm feeling anxious about this — could we talk it through together?"

Leaving a situation that's become overwhelming

"I need to step out for a few minutes, I'll be right back."

Telling someone you're anxious, simply

"I'm feeling a bit anxious right now — I don't need you to fix it, just wanted to name it."

Bonus 5: Quick Reference Cheat Sheets

Breathing Techniques at a Glance

Technique	Pattern	Best for
Box Breathing	4 in – 4 hold – 4 out – 4 hold	General reset, focus
4-7-8 Breathing	4 in – 7 hold – 8 out	Winding down, sleep
Extended Exhale	In for 4 – out for 6-8	Fast in-the-moment calm

5-4-3-2-1 Grounding

- 5 things you can see
- 4 things you can touch
- 3 things you can hear
- 2 things you can smell
- 1 thing you can taste

Thought Challenge — Quick Version

- What's the thought?
- Is it fact or prediction?
- What would I tell a friend?
- What's a more balanced thought?

In-the-Moment Reset

- Feet flat on the floor, notice contact
- One long, slow exhale
- Name what's true right now, not what might happen
- One small next action

Cheat Sheet: Cognitive Distortions Quick List

Distortion	Quick Test
Catastrophizing	Am I assuming the worst possible outcome?
All-or-nothing	Am I ignoring the middle ground?
Mind reading	Am I assuming I know what someone thinks?
Fortune telling	Am I treating a prediction as a fact?
Should statements	Am I holding a rigid, guilt-driven rule?
Emotional reasoning	Am I treating a feeling as proof?

Cheat Sheet: Daily Calm Checklist

Morning check-in with my body	■
One breathing practice	■
Movement, even 15-20 minutes	■
Caffeine kept to the morning	■
One grounding technique practiced	■
Screen-free hour before bed	■
One gratitude note	■

Bonus: Anxiety First-Aid Kit Checklist

A physical or digital kit you can turn to quickly. Check off what you've gathered.

Printed Emergency Calm-Down Card	■
Printed or saved Affirmation Cards	■
A playlist of calming music or sounds	■
A comfort object (textured item, cool water bottle, etc.)	■
Your Support Network list from the Workbook	■
A copy of your Personal Commitment page from the Guide	■
This Cheat Sheets bundle saved to your phone	■

Bonus: Weekly Cheat Sheet Review

A one-page weekly check to see which quick tools you're actually reaching for.

Tool	Used This Week?	Helped?
Emergency Calm-Down Card	■	■
Affirmation Cards	■	■
Breathing Cheat Sheet	■	■
5-4-3-2-1 Grounding	■	■
Thought Challenge Quick Version	■	■
Daily Calm Checklist	■	■

Pairs with the Audio Version tracks included in your bundle — use the guided breathing recording alongside your breathing cheat sheet for a fuller reset.

Thank You

This Bonus Pack is designed to be used alongside the Anxiety Relief Guide and Workbook. Keep it handy, revisit it often, and adapt anything here to fit what actually works for you.

— Vinyan Studio